Nixon Disclaims He's 'Co-President'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon disclaims any effort to make himself "co-President" with jurisdiction over foreign policy in advance of his inauguration—but he still maintains that to be valid, any long-term commitments abroad need his approval.

That, in essence, is the position the President-elect took, and made public through a top aide, after President Johnson made clear his determination to remain firmly in command until Jan. 20.

Bryce N. Harlow, an assistant to the President-elect, telephoned Johnson Thursday night, got a call back from the President Friday. And sources said Harlow had assured Johnson that Nixon was "not attempting to presume upon the constitutional authority of the President."

Apparent Discord
As for Johnson, a Nixon associate said, "The President tried to make it clear that constitutionally, there is one President of the United States, there are no co-Presidents, with which Mr. Nixon is in perfect agreement."

This statement came after hours of apparent discord between Johnson and his Republican successor over Nixon's immediate role in foreign affairs.

Nixon said Thursday that he and Johnson had worked out an arrangement for prior consultation on foreign policy matters. He said this was done in connection with his Monday pledge that foreign policy decisions of the present administration would be honored by the next.

Air Force One Transports Nixon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon took his first flight Friday night on an airplane that is not yet his: Air Force One.

Technically, it did not bear that designation because the President was not aboard. But the silver and blue four-engine jet is the one which normally carries President Johnson. Presumably, it was used with Johnson's permission for Nixon's flight from New York to Miami.

Czech Protest With Strikes In Power Struggle

PRAGUE (AP) — Protest strikes were reported in suburban Prague and in Olomouc, central Moravia, as Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders waged a power struggle with pro-Soviet hardliners behind closed doors.

It was not immediately learned what action, if any, authorities planned to take. The government has banned demonstrations to try and maintain calm during a crucial party Central Committee meeting, now in its second day.

Czechoslovak military policemen with submachine guns patrolled Prague streets and informants said the Czechoslovak army's 6,000-man Prague garrison was alerted and all leaves canceled.

Red Return Rumored

Armored personnel carriers were noticed at one of the small Soviet military command posts in the city, but there was no confirmation of rumors that some Soviet units had returned to Prague from permanent camps in outlying areas.

Student leaders said the reports of army and police alerts made them realize that demonstrations would be suicide. They announced plans for peaceful sit-ins, starting Sunday—one for a day to protest the ban on demonstrations, and another for up to three days if the Central Committee decisions are unfavorable.

Numerous departments of Charles University in Prague also adopted a resolution to join factory workers immediately if the workers decide to demonstrate for political reasons.

Some students said they would participate in weekend "Dubcek shifts" at factories to show support for Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek and at the same time mass together groups of workers and students.

Defined Reform

Snatches of arguments in the 190-member Central Committee, released by radio and television indicated Dubcek's supporters were fighting to defend his reform policies against attacks by Old Guard hard-liners. Some members had angrily demanded to know what leaders had invited the Soviets to invade their country for the purpose of quelling "counterrevolution." Many Czechoslovaks feared they were the dying gasps of free discussion.

Soviets Launch Carrier Rocket

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched Proton-4, described in an official announcement as the world's biggest unmanned spaceship.

The announcement said a booster rocket put a payload of 17 tons into earth orbit. Of this, 12.5 tons constituted unspecified scientific equipment.

Proton-4 will continue studies of cosmic rays "and their interaction with nuclei of atoms," the announcement added.

The Soviet Proton series of spacecraft uses a powerful carrier rocket which Western scientists have said could be used for the Soviet Union's announced program of assembling, while in earth orbit, manned spacecraft for trips to the moon and planets.

France's Vote Indicates Unity With Allies

BRUSSELS (AP) — The 11 nations of the North Atlantic Alliance warned the Soviet Union today any further aggression in Europe or the Mediterranean would "provoke an international crisis of grave consequences."

The warning to Moscow was endorsed by all members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, including France.

The two-day meeting of the council of the alliance ended with publication of the communiqué. French approval was taken as an indication that France has closed ranks with its allies following the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia.

The communiqué said:

"Members of the alliance urgently invite the Soviet Union in the interest of world peace to refrain from using force and intervening in the affairs of other states resolved to safeguard the freedom and independence of their country. They (NATO members) could not remain indifferent to any development which would endanger their security."

"It is evident that Soviet intervention having a direct or indirect influence on the situation in Europe or the Mediterranean would provoke an international crisis of grave consequences."

Moved Ahead

The communiqué said the council meeting, traditionally held in December, had been moved ahead nearly six weeks because of the "serious situation" arising from "the armed intervention on Czechoslovakia by the Soviet Union and four of its Warsaw Pact allies."

This intervention, the allies said, "strikes at the very principles of the United Nations charter" and "profoundly shocked" world public opinion.

It has been denounced by all NATO members.

France added a footnote to the opinions of the others in the communiqué on the continuation of the alliance. It said that as far as France is concerned, the alliance should continue "as long as seems necessary" unless there is a radical change in relations between East and West.

A spokesman recalled that the French took this same position in 1966. He also noted that in his speech to the council, Foreign Minister Michel Debre had put the emphasis on continuing efforts to reduce tensions between the West and the Soviet Union.

President Charles de Gaulle took France out of the military sections of NATO in 1966 but has ever since then reaffirmed his support for the Western alliance.

In an interview just after the close of the meeting, West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt spoke with satisfaction of the results achieved at the meeting. Of the warning to Moscow, he said: "I think the signal will be read. It's good because it uses few words."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk indicated the tone the statement might take Friday when he said the safety of the alliance, including the United States, would be affected if the Soviets move into Yugoslavia or Austria.

Improve Relations

Rusk also was reported to have said that a Soviet invasion of Romania would have graver consequences than the Czechoslovakia invasion.

Romania is a member of the Warsaw Pact, but has been taking an independent line recently.

Yugoslavia, though Communist for the past 20 years, has been independent of Moscow. Austria is neutral with its status guaranteed by the United States, Great Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

Some members took his remarks to mean Americans favor an extension of NATO protection to certain non-NATO states. But U.S. officials disputed such an interpretation. An unknown was how far Rusk can commit President-elect Richard Nixon.

Another unknown was the extent to which President de Gaulle's France will go along in issuing a warning to Moscow, although officials reported France has shown more interest

World Bankers Meet On Monetary Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Anxiety about the French franc rubbed off on the U.S. dollar and the British pound today as the world's top bankers assembled in Basel, Switzerland, to discuss a growing monetary crisis.

Speculators rushed to get rid of francs, dollars and pounds, switching to gold, commodities and the German mark, currently rated the safest of all paper money.

Financial commentators here said the market activity was the most fevered since the pound sterling was devalued exactly a year ago, despite official assurances that the franc will not be devalued.

The meeting in Basel was to be a routine monthly session of central European bankers. But there have been persistent rumors that the West German mark will be revalued upward from its present level of about 25 American cents, and France is expected to seek massive international support for the franc.

Swiss bankers reported they were inundated with orders for German marks. The authoritative London Financial Times reported the French money market was showing signs of panic, with private banks cleared out of marks and Swiss francs.

One factor acting against the franc was fear that France may bring back exchange control, causing the rush to switch to other freely convertible currencies or commodities. The French Finance Ministry denied it was even considering exchange control.

Another factor was the rise in the French cost of living, now running at 5 per cent a year. This inevitably made the franc's purchasing power suspect.

In Paris, financial sources said the French would ask for additional credits amounting to at least $1.3 billion at the Basel meeting. That was the total of the swap agreements made last July 10 with the central banks of West Germany, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands and the U.S. Federal Reserve and the Bank of International Settlements.

Officially reported reserve losses, since the weakness of the franc developed in the May-June student-worker upheavals and their aftermath, now total about $2.6 billion. This does not include the swap funds.

Demo Strikes Discord On Lifting Of Surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who controls congressional tax-writing machinery has cast doubt on chances for lifting the 10 per cent income surtax, striking a note of discord among postelection Democratic pledges of cooperation with the incoming Republican administration.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Friday there is scant likelihood of Congress permitting the 10 per cent surtax to die a natural death as scheduled June 30.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon said during the campaign the surtax was a "war tax" and should not be extended.

But Mills, D-Ark., said in a speech to the Arkansas Petroleum Council in Little Rock: "We may as well face the fact that the cessation or lessening of hostilities will bring immediate demands from all sides for additional spending on the domestic front."

Some Nixon aides have indicated the new administration might settle for a reduction in the surtax to 5 or 6 per cent if it can't block it outright.

Mills didn't mention the possibility of a reduced tax.

He said normal growth alone—not counting increased demands for domestic spending in the cities, education and other areas—will increase next year's expenditures by $7 billion to $10 billion. Government economists have estimated the surtax will raise $15.2 billion in the fiscal year ending June 30.

The speech was Mills' strongest public comment on the surtax since the election.

Three days after the election he said in an interview that a combination of a tax cut and increased federal spending would produce "an unmanageable deficit" in the fiscal year starting next July 1.

U.S. Spokesmen Plays Down Breakthrough

SAIGON (AP) — Authoritative sources said today President Nguyen Van Thieu may be bending his conditions for sending a delegation to the Paris peace talks, which he has boycotted for two weeks.

The sources said he is ready to send a negotiating team if Washington assures it a leading role in the talks. They said he would still refuse to recognize the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, but would allow his delegation to address its remarks broadly "to the Communist side."

Officially Thieu is still on record as saying he will not send a delegation to the talks if the NLF sits as a separate negotiating entity.

No Change
Sources close to Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky reported the vice president was approached by Thieu to head South Vietnam's delegation in Paris. They said Ky was considering the offer.

There was nothing to indicate that Thieu had changed his stand, however, in an official statement released by his press aide, Lt. Col. Tran Van Lam.

Lam quoted Thieu as saying the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments are "working to resolve our differences and everything must be settled with composure and patience and in an open-minded, understanding spirit."

American spokesmen in Saigon also downplayed the reports of a breakthrough, saying there was no reason for more than cautious optimism.

Meanwhile, other sources said optimists within the Saigon government are speaking of Nov. 22 as the date for a Cabinet reshuffle which would clear the way for the dispatch of a delegation to Paris the following week.

On the military front the U.S.

Command today announced three new sightings of North Vietnamese troops and convoys inside the demilitarized zone and said American planes and artillery attacked the enemy positions.

Headquarters said the incidents brought to 16 the number of times this week Hanoi has violated a mutual agreement to keep the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam free of military activity.

A spokesman said the planes and artillery smashed 23 North Vietnamese bunkers and triggered 32 secondary explosions and a half dozen fires, indicating hits on ammunition or fuel stores. Nine enemy soldiers were reported killed.

Headquarters said at least 34 enemy soldiers were killed in two fights along the lower half of the Cambodian border where the Communists reportedly have massed 15,000 to 20,000 troops.

Escanaba: New Ore Port

C&NW Ore Route Shortest, Fastest

The advantages of Escanaba as an iron ore shipping port are graphically told by the Chicago & North Western Railway in a "New Escanaba Ore Port" promotion folder being distributed to ore producers and shippers and the public.

Described as "the efficient blending of transportation systems," the brochure calls the new ore facility at Escanaba part of a system that "is the shortest route from mine to market."

From the mines of northern Michigan and Wisconsin the ore is transported to Escanaba to be loaded aboard vessels that have but 274 miles to travel to Chicago and 438 miles to Detroit.

"The only ore transfer terminal on Lake Michigan—providing fastest transit time from mine to mill."

"Low level dock in a deep-water sheltered harbor to serve largest lake carriers. Fast shiploader serves either side of dock."

"Ore shipped from mine to ore port on train schedules to meet shippers' demands."

"A 60-acre year-round storage area where identity of product is maintained."

"Track scales weigh your ore before it enters terminal; conveyor scales weigh your ore when it is loaded into vessels; automatic data processing provides fast, accurate records."

"Ore unloaded from rail cars by automatic car dumper. No bottom hopper doors to work loose and cause Pellet losses."

"Provides longest navigation season of all Upper Great Lakes ports with a natural water-level route all the way to lower lake markets."

Escanaba's new port is "where customer needs are met in iron ore transfer," says the North Western, which has been handling ore at Escanaba for 104 years.

Construction of the new $16 million iron ore storage and transfer terminal is well under way and proceeding on schedule.

Crews have begun installation of major pieces of equipment of the highly mechanized facility including track scales, automatic car positioner, rotary car dumper, travelling ore stacking machine, and much of the nearly two miles of heavy-duty conveyor belt that will link the car dumping, storage and dock loading facilities.

When completed next spring, the new Escanaba terminal will be the most modern of its type on the Great Lakes with an initial storage capacity of 2 million tons of pelletized ore. In fact, the storage area will be ready to receive ore after Jan. 1, well before the 1969 lake shipping season opens.

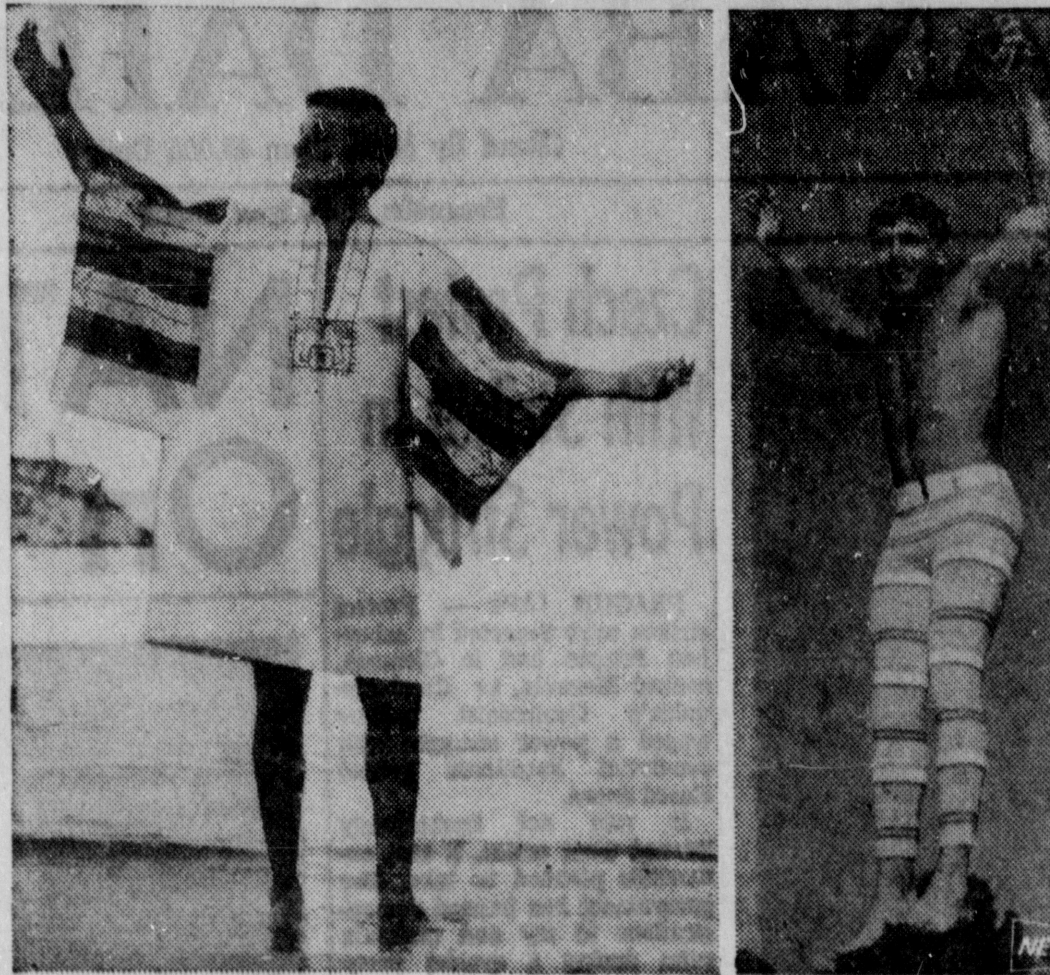

Unlike present seasonal ore handling at Escanaba, the new terminal is designed for ore trains to move from inland mines to the terminal on a year-round basis. During the lake shipping season—roughly mid-April through early December—the ore will be loaded into vessels via the conveyor system either from the 60-acre storage area, where the supply of pellets has built up during the winter months, or directly from trains as the cars are unloaded.

Some 500 feet of the existing 2,000 foot-long 72 foot-high wooden dock has already been dismantled without interruption to the movement of ore over the dock for the remainder of this year's shipping season. Long an Escanaba landmark, the massive structure was originally constructed 65 years ago.

The remainder of the old dock will be torn down after the lake shipping season closes and in its place will be constructed a 1,900 foot-long low-level (top of the dock will rise only 8 feet above the water line) dock complete with conveyor belt and mechanical ship loader. Conveyors on the dock itself will be 72 inches wide and capable of handling pelletized ore at a maximum rate of 6,800 long tons per hour.

The rotary dumper will automatically unload three ore cars simultaneously at a rate of approximately 5,000 tons an hour.

Both Governors Goof At Signing Of 'Sister' Pact

LANSING (AP)—Even before the sister-state agreement was signed, Michigan and the Japanese prefecture of Shiga experienced the ups and downs of family life.

Shiga Gov. Kinichiro Nozaki met Gov. George Romney in his Lansing office Thursday for an informal visit before formal ceremonies at which they signed the document proclaiming their states "sisters."

In the exchange of gifts traditional with visiting dignitaries, Romney presented Nozaki a bow and arrows for bear hunting, then set out to demonstrate how to string the bow.

He put the string on backwards.

Coached by aides, the governor wound the bow behind his leg and tried again. Still no luck.

Romney gave up, asked someone else to work on the bow and went on giving gifts—personal presents for Nozaki and his first lady.

Then it was the Japanese governor's turn and the first gift was a Shiga flag, already fastened to the flagstaff by a Nozaki aide.

When they unfurled the flag it was upside down.

The governors worked together

Flint Man Shot At Cedar River

CEDAR RIVER—State Police of the Stephenson post report a 21-year-old Flint man was accidentally shot in the leg at 8:15 p. m. Thursday.

Rodney Foley, was at the residence of his uncle, John Foley of Cedar River, when the mishap occurred, officers said.

According to the report, Foley was examining a .22 caliber revolver in a holster when he dropped it on the floor, discharging, with the bullet striking him in the leg about four inches below the knee. He was taken to St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital in Menominee for treatment.

Sam Houston was once governor of Texas and Tennessee.

Safe and $100 Missing From Service Station

A floor safe containing about $100 was stolen from the Flodin Service Station at 1000 1st Ave. S. last night by burglars who broke a glass in the door to gain entrance, it is reported by city police.

After opening a hole in the glass the thief released a night latch on the door. The safe was removed through the door. Police investigation is continuing.

Rights Group Pleased With Judge's Ruling On Low-Income Housing

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A civil rights group today hailed as a landmark ruling the decision by a federal judge to ban a public vote which could stop a low-income housing project in Lansing.

Judge Noel P. Fox of U.S. District Court issued a permanent injunction Friday against a referendum on the zoning change in Michigan's State Capitol.

The zoning change was passed by Lansing's City Council some time ago to permit construction of a 25-unit public housing project for low-income families.

"The court's order strikes at sophisticated devices of housing discrimination found across the country," said Jack Greenberg, director - counsel of the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He said it is the "first ruling of its kind" and that it gives NAACP attorneys "a tool to fight such devices as zoning, which segregate neighborhoods by income, thereby limiting entry of Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexican-Americans and other minorities."

Petitioned Council

In his 30-page opinion, Fox said that he found the "motivation behind the circulation of the referendum petitions . . . is in major part based on economic and racial discrimination in housing."

"Similar zoning variances for middle and upper income unit housing have never been challenged," Fox added.

The Lansing City Council more than a year ago passed the zoning change to permit construction of the housing project in a lower middle-income area of the Southeast Side designated only for single-family dwellings.

Soon afterward, a group called the Committee for Individual Homes sought to petition for a referendum on the zoning change.

The Lansing city clerk refused to accept the petitions in June 1967, but Ingham County Circuit Court ordered the petitions accepted and this order was upheld by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Then a group of nine Negroes and Mexican-Americans filed suit in the federal court to block the referendum. The NAACP Legal Defense Fund supported their lawsuit.

Used As Tool

In his ruling, Fox asserted that "zoning ordinances have long been used as a tool for containing particular racial groups in these unhealthy ghettos."

Fox noted that 65 per cent of Lansing's Negroes and Mexican-Americans live in a West Side ghetto containing only 11 per cent of the city's population of 120,000.

He said 75 per cent of the ghetto housing is substandard or dilapidated and one-third of it is overcrowded.

The controversial public housing site, he said, is the only one "suggested by the city which would provide anything approaching adequate low-income housing in a reasonable period of time."

If citizens were permitted to vote against the rezoning and in a referendum actually did reject it, Fox said, it would delay construction of the low-income housing.

And the same thing could happen with any other site, he said.

Train Victim Is Identified

The man who was killed by a Chicago & North Western train in Escanaba on Friday night, Nov. 8, is identified by the FBI as Nels John Johnson, 74, who roomed at 113 N. 10th St., according to Police Chief Richard Frederick.

The positive identification, made by the Federal Bureau of Investigation from military files in Washington, was reported to Escanaba police last night.

Johnson was killed when he was struck by an eastbound freight train about one and one-half miles west of N. 23rd St. Members of the train crew told police that Johnson was lying with his head on the rail and raised up on one elbow as the train approached.

The train was traveling about 30 miles an hour and could not be halted in time to avert the tragedy. Johnson's mangled body was found beneath the 20th car in the train. The assistance of the FBI was obtained in making a positive identification.

Mr. Johnson was born in Varmland, Sweden, on May 27, 1894. He enlisted in the U.S. Army at Bessemer on July 2, 1918. There are no immediate members of the family here, although he is believed to have relatives or a relative in Chicago.

Graveside funeral services were held at 11 a.m. today in Lakeview Cemetery with Major Orville Butts of the Salvation Army officiating. The services were in charge of the Degnan-Crawford Funeral Home.

State Plans To Ban Throwaways

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department, which picks up litter along much of Michigan's 9,207 miles of state highways, plans to try again next year to outlaw throw-away beer bottles.

A proposal for a minimum five-cent deposit charge on beer bottles is on the 1969 legislative program of the State Highway Commission.

The commission also plans to ask lawmakers to regulate roadside parks and rest areas, modernize standards for railroad signs and signals, and give the department more control over disposal of snow and ice on highway rights of way.

The department now spends some $700,000 a year in litter cleanup and estimates that it removes from 500,000 to 1,000,000 bottles from roadsides annually.

Tips For Avoiding Carbon Monoxide

EAST LANSING (AP)—Carbon monoxide poisoning is a deadly danger in cars, cabins and homes, warn the Michigan State Police. They offer these tips to help avoid it:

Have your auto's exhaust system thoroughly checked, looking closely for leaks into the passenger compartment.

Keep the car ventilated whenever the engine is running, even when it is moving; don't sit for long in a stopped car with the engine running.

Do not run the engine in a closed garage.

Seek professional inspection of flame-type appliances used in homes, cottages, cabins and camper units.

Sco Industries Called Polluters

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP) — The Ontario Water Resources Commission singled out three major Sault Ste. Marie industries Thursday as the prime sources of industrial waste in the St. Marys River.

The report, received in Sault Ste. Marie, alleged that Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd., Domtar

Chemicals, Ltd. and the Mannesmann Tube Co. Ltd. were responsible for discharging waste into the river above the municipal water intake level.

Earlier this month, a report by the international joint commission on water pollution in the river stated that although the companies have initiated pollution - prevention programs the phenol (a caustic acid compound) concentration in the river is the same as in previous studies.

Today's report said a phenol recovery plant being constructed by Algoma Steel would not improve the quality of the water since the plant is located below the Sault Ste. Marie municipal water intake.

The manager of the city's public utilities commission, Hugh Harris, said phenol in the water is a taste problem, not one involving health. He said that according to the Water Resources Commission there always will be some phenol present in the water because of naturally decaying organic material.

Family groups are scheduled at the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center for Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 as well as Sunday and Wednesday night from 7 to 10, according to the recreation department. Children must be accompanied by their parents.

David Christianson, 26, St. Ignace, reported to State Police that he struck a deer with his car on U.S. 41 near the intersection with County Rd. 432 in Mascoville Township about 6:40 p.m. Friday. Christianson was not injured, officers said.

A house trailer being pulled by a car driven by James Smith, 30, of 1407 Minneapolis Ave., Gladstone, was damaged about 5:30 a.m. today in an accident on County Rd. 430 about four miles west of M-35, State Police reported. Officers said the right wheel of the trailer dropped over the pavement and Smith lost control as the trailer started weaving. The trailer rolled on its side. Smith was not injured, officers said.

Local Units Control Health Plans: Innis

DETROIT (AP)—The American Public Health Service urged its executive board Friday to consider supporting the concept that local communities be given complete control in formulation and administration of health plans adopted for them.

This action came at the urging of Roy Innis, national director of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE) and moderator for a panel on "The Consumer and Health Services," at the association's final session in a week-long meeting.

Innis insisted specifically, as did some other members of the all-Negro panel, that Negro communities within cities control whatever health services are provided in so-called ghetto areas.

He said this applied particularly to such areas as New York City's Harlem and Los Angeles' Watts.

Favors Autonomy

Innis later told a news conference he favors "a completely autonomous nation" for Negroes within the United States, and Negroes should gain control of institutions and real estate in the areas in which they predominate.

Doris Brown of Cincinnati, Titus Greenwood of Detroit, Earl Mills of Cleveland and Lela Mosley of Chicago, the panel members, criticized availability and quality of health services which they said are now available to Negroes and the poor generally.

Mills said that some times it takes two days for a city doctor to answer a call from the ghetto area, and Mrs. Brown invited people "to walk through the slums" to observe health conditions there.

Mrs. Brown also insisted that the poor normally get "the runaround from the clerk, the nurse and the doctor" at clinics and hospitals.

Moonlighting

Dr. Henry F. Howe, director of the department of occupational health for the American Medical Association (AMA), responded that possibly the medical profession should institute better training for receptionists and other hospital personnel "in tolerance" and the recognition of emergencies.

Speakers arising in the audience accused "moonlighting physicians of coming to the ghetto at their convenience," rather than that of the patient, and the Office of Economic Opportunity of letting some institutions "syphon off 90 per cent" of the funds they were given to aid the underprivileged in health and other areas.

Dr. Ellis D. Sox, San Francisco director of public health and a respondent to the panel, said health authorities "must make our services acceptable" by listening to communities and realizing consumers are human beings.

Mrs. Brown reported Cincinnati now has a community oriented West End Clinic run by volunteers. She said other ghetto areas might profit by using it as an example of what could be done.

Snowmobile Sport

Ten years ago or so, snowmobiles were an oddity in the United States. The only ones in the Upper Peninsula were owned by the Michigan Conservation Department and were operated for utilitarian purposes — not for recreation. They were imported from Canada, where the government and trappers had found them exceedingly practical for winter woods operations.

All that has changed now. Snowmobiling has become a major recreation in the Upper Peninsula and throughout the snow belt in the United States — all in a matter of a few years.

Hunters and ice fishermen were among the first in the Upper Peninsula to discover the practical uses of snowmobiles. Later, families owning camps that were off the beaten paths found that they could solve the problem of getting back into the woods in the winter without difficulty by buying a snowmobile. Still later, the public began to recognize the recreational attraction of operating snowmobiles for the pure fun of it.

Once that happened, snowmobiling mushroomed into a big business. If there is any question about this, consider these figures: Snowmobiles today are manufactured under 60 different brand names, and new companies are going into the business every year. In addition to Canadian and American manufacturers, at least one Japanese company has entered the field. The machines sell for from $795 up, depending on engine size, and this can range from 17 to 50 horsepower. Altogether, about $200,000,000 worth of snowmobiles and accessories will be sold throughout the United States this year.

The sport has grown to such dimensions that magazines and newspapers devoted exclusively to snowmobiling are being published. Snowmobile clubs have been established, some of them complete with their own clubhouses. Snowmobile trails have been laid out through national and state forests and occasionally on private property. Dozens of snowmobile races, marathons and other organized events are being conducted every winter throughout the Midwest. (Bessemer this year will host what it calls the first snowmobile races ever held under lights when it stages a "Snowmobile Derby under the Stars" on Dec. 28.)

There is no accurate figure on how many snowmobiles are owned by individuals in Michigan. Guesses range between 50,000 and 100,000, and the latter figure probably is closer to actuality. In any event, there are so many snowmobiles in Michigan that the Legislature this year enacted a law making snowmobile registration mandatory. When it goes into effect next Jan. 1, there will be very accurate information on the number of snowmobiles in the state.

Introduced by an Upper Peninsula legislator, Rep. Robert W. Davis, St. Ignace Republican, the new law requires that all snowmobiles in the state must be registered by the owners unless the vehicle is operated on lands owned or under control of the owner. The registration fee for a three-year period through 1971 will be $5. In 1970, the fee will be reduced to $3 and in 1971 to $2. In addition to provisions for registration, the act spells out a number of regulations governing operation of snowmobiles designed to protect both the snowmobile operators and the public.

When snowmobiles become so numerous that the Legislature orders them to be licensed, you know that snowmobiling is no longer in its infancy. It has grown to a major recreation and a big business in a surprisingly few years.

GARDEN CLUB

It has been brought to my attention by several persons in this area that there is a need for a home garden club.

Many people buy flower and vegetable plants in the spring-time and then run into many problems in growing them through the summer months. They also have problems in the care and maintenance of lawns and shrubbery. Therefore they feel that a garden club would help the amateur home gardener in solving his problems, and would be of great value to him in saving time and money spent on buying and growing spring gardening plants.

Many people enjoy gardening as a hobby and the garden club would be a means of increasing their pleasure, for a nice garden and lawn and flowers are fun to talk about with friends. Persons who are interested in this type of club and would like to see one formed are invited to call me at 786-2647 for more information.

SCHOOL BOARD

I would like to address this to Mr. Lankford, Mr. Tooman and Mr. Kaziatek of the Escanaba Area School Board.

Hooray for a board of control! The day has finally arrived when we have some active, conscientious school board members working for the district. I was one of those irate parents who criticized the board in September. Let me now be one of the first to show appreciation for your effort.

We in the township realize how much time you've devoted to this study of school conditions. We also realize, though, that these conditions haven't just popped up overnight. One principal has remarked he has tried for years to get administration to realize we exist—without much progress or interest.

I can hardly believe the cause is lack of maintenance forces. Good administration makes periodic checks on school conditions. Some of the faults you pointed out have existed for years.

On your list from Pine Ridge let me add two more items, please. Somehow you overlooked driveway conditions. It is sorely in need of gravel. Some holes are four inches deep. It's rough on our automobiles and our buses.

My son had the responsibility of raising the flag but the rope broke. This happened the third week of school. Still not operating.

Just one other item: Following Halloween, the children washed off the soap and wax work of some pranksters at our school. The ledge they stood on is the width of the brick and is four feet off the ground. Wouldn't someone's face be red if, in a playful act or an accidental bump, some child went crashing through the glass. In 50 degree weather I wouldn't send my children out with a bucket of water to wash windows at home. Window washing is the janitor's work. Here all the time I thought I paid school taxes to have my children educated.

Wallace In 1972

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Sixty leaders of South Carolina's George C. Wallace for President organization have begun work towards election of the former Alabama governor in the 1972 presidential election.

The group met in Columbia Thursday night to reorganize and elect new officers.

Wallace has made no official commitment to seek the presidency in 1972, "but 10 million American voters cannot be ignored," said Tom Turnipseed, one of Wallace's national campaign coordinators this year.

Again I thank you for your time and sincere interest in a better school system. I hope this is just the beginning.

COMMENDATION

After attending the Nov. 12 school board meeting at Cornell, I felt someone should commend our school board for the wonderful job they are doing. There is no doubt in my mind that these men have spent many, many hours recently on our school problems, and are due to spend many, many more for the purpose of seeing that our tax dollars are spent wisely and fairly.

I think credit in equal amount should go to the B. U. S. Committee. The long hours and personal funds spent for the purpose of bringing to the attention of our school board the existing conditions and situations in the area should be appreciated by all.

Throughout the entire meeting I had the feeling that I was part of a group of human beings discussing human everyday problems. I also got the feeling that these men knew exactly what they were doing and why, but were willing to listen anyway and re-evaluate their positions if it was found necessary, or advisable. They discussed our children as human beings, with human needs, desires and faults.

In short, I feel the human element, which seems to have been lacking more and more with collective bargaining over the past years, is back in this system. I am hoping that with this kind of concern on the part of our school board members, that our teachers in the system who have felt in the past (and may still feel) that they could do no wrong, will re-evaluate their positions also. Let's get the human element back into the system and look upon the students as such and not as a bunch of computers.

I appeal also to our students in the schools to help by doing the best they can to help the school board stay in a position whereby they can and will help them. It's a thankless job at best, with no pay; only deep satisfaction in a job well done.

So I say thanks to our school board, our B. U. S. Committee, and all the hard working people who are dedicating much time and effort to make our school system a good one. May God Bless Them!

Mrs. George Pepin

Today's hand was played in an important team match. At one table North and South were content to play in three diamonds with South making four odd. At the other table South reached five diamonds. The contract is reasonable because it appears to depend on a spade finesse. As you can see, the spade finesse does not work, yet Australian expert Tim Seres managed to make the contract in spite of the unfortunate position of the spade king.

The defense opened with three rounds of hearts. Tim ruffed the third heart high and noted that West discarded the eight of spades.

Tim might have played this for a false signal but he decided that West was an honest, straightforward player and would be telling the truth.

Then Tim proceeded to make his contract. It wasn't really too difficult if Tim was willing to risk a set of several tricks.

He simply ran off all his trumps while discarding down to a small spade and the ace, queen and jack of clubs in dummy. Meanwhile, back at the ranch, poor West was having considerable trouble with his discards. He could only keep four cards. If he held two spades, he could only hold two clubs, if he held three clubs he would have to unguard his king of spades. Actually, he unguarded the king of spades, whereupon Tim cashed three spade tricks and did not need the club finesse. On the other hand, had West kept his spade guard, Tim would have taken the club finesse and made three club tricks.

Of course, if East had held the club king there would have been no squeeze and no story, and if West had restrained his impulse to signal, the chances are that Tim would have tried the spade finesse and gone down one.

What do you do now?

A—Bid four hearts. You are still bidding along with the minimum values you started with but your minimum is beginning to look up. If your partner does go to a slam, he should have a play for it.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three clubs, your partner bids two diamonds over your one spade. What do you do now?

Twelve Charged With Extortion

DETROIT (AP) — A federal grand jury Thursday indicted 12 men on charges of conspiracy to commit extortion and alleged that reputed Mafia kingpins Vito and Anthony Giacalone were trying to control the loan-shark racket in the Detroit area.

The indictment said the 12 conspired to lend money to businesses at interest rates between eight per cent and 20 per cent per month and to collect the fees by force.

Actual extortion attempts were alleged against 10 of the men.

Five defendants were charged with threatening persons against testifying before grand jurors. Vito Giacalone, 45, of suburban Grosse Pointe Shores, also was charged with failing to report $21,500 in income on his tax return for 1967.

Giacalone and his brother, Anthony, 49, were named in testimony by former Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards before the U. S. Senate rackets subcommittee in 1963 as among the top 25 Mafia figures in the Detroit area.

Seven of the 12 charged were arraigned Thursday in Federal Court before Judge Damon Keith. All seven stood mute and the court entered pleas of not guilty.

Vito Giacalone was in Centreville where a jury convicted him Thursday night of illegal possession of a blackjack. His brother was convicted on the same charge last Friday. Conviction carries a maximum prison sentence of five years. After the trial, Giacalone remained free on $2,000 personal bond.

The Paparellis were threatened with injury to themselves and their families if they testified, the indictment contended.

Vito Giacalone was charged with not reporting taxable income in 1967 that consisted in part of interest paid by Henry Madigan, president of K.A.M. Equipment Co. The indictment alleged that Giacalone loaned Madigan $20,000 June 27, 1966 at a bi-monthly interest rate of 17 1/2 per cent, and that Giacalone collected $7,500 in interest payments on about June 27, 1967.

Giacalone was charged with filing a false income tax return for 1967. In another count, he was charged with reporting $74,374 in joint income with his wife, when it alleged it should have been $95,874.

The names of the other ten persons indicted are Elias Koury, Bernard Marchesani, Salvatore Agosta, Ronald Morelli, Albert Buccieri, James Karalla Jr., Michael P. Katranis, Clarence Stephan, Peter Amorino and Richard Zimmerman.

Farm Bureau Bestows Honors

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Farm Bureau has named Harold F. Blaylock of Vassar and Frank Merriman of Deckerville to receive distinguished service awards.

Honors are to be bestowed on the recipients Tuesday at the bureau's 49th annual conference banquet in Lansing.

Blaylock, a leader of the Michigan Milk Producers Association and a former vice president of the group, raises Holstein-Friesian cattle on his 240-acre Tuscola County farm. He has served as vice president of his county board of supervisors and on the farm bureau state dairy committee.

Blaylock also has been a member of the Great Lakes milk marketing federation and has represented the MMPA in an advisory capacity at meetings called by the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Merriman began his agricultural life as secretary and president of the Michigan Future Farmers of America and was named FFA Star Farmer in 1939 and American Farmer in 1940.

Serving a second term on the Michigan State University Board of Trustees, Merriman also has been chairman of the State Agricultural Extension Council and a member of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

Conditions Good For Crop Harvest

LANSING (AP) — Production prospects for several Michigan crops—apples, corn, dry beans, soybeans and sugar beets—improved last month, says the State Crop Reporting Service.

The prospect for grapes, however, declined and the fall potato forecast is unchanged from a month ago.

The service says mild weather in October, with no general killing frost, until the end of the month, was most favorable for maturing corn, soybeans and other later maturing crops.

Ziegler Rated As 'Swell Guy'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald L. Ziegler, the 29-year-old Californian named as chief White House spokesman by President-elect Richard M. Nixon, likes to conduct business the way he wears his clothes—neat and trim with attention to detail.

A high school football captain, he returned to Covington, Ky., to marry the high school cheerleader. A fraternity man at the University of Southern California, he was rated a "swell guy" by fellow students and "serious and inquisitive" by his professors. A young advertising executive, he handled some of his company's big accounts.

Officially, Ziegler will be called a "special assistant to the President." But his job will be to inform the press of the President's comings and goings, of his decisions, his policies.

Nixon has said he will not have an aide with the title press secretary.

Despite his youth, Ziegler is a veteran of political public relations. He has worked closely with the President-elect since 1962 when Nixon sought unsuccessfully to oust Edmund G. Brown from California's governor's chair.

Then, as in the presidential campaign, he served as Nixon's traveling press secretary, stumping California, arranging press accommodations, preparing statements and speeches, attending to details of the campaign. Before that, as a marketing student just graduated from USC he worked as public relations officer for California's Republican State Central Committee.

RECORD RUN

The record run of the Pony Express was made when the news of Abraham Lincoln's election in 1860 was carried from St. Joseph, Mo., over the Rocky Mountains to Sacramento, Calif., a distance of 1,950 miles in seven days and 17 hours.

Pay Adjustments Could Cost State

LANSING (AP) — Michigan could spend almost $1 million more to pay officials for the next two years if the new state officers' compensation commission follows recommendations it heard Friday.

But, Gov. George Romney, who termed the financial position of the governor "indefensible," urged the commission to "be very slow and cautious in whatever you do."

Romney and other state officials testified before the commission, which has until Dec. 1 to set salaries of governor, lieutenant governor, legislators and state supreme court justices for the next two years.

Commission Chairman Lawrence Carino said the seven-member body expected to set temporary determinations by Nov. 26 and final figures by Nov. 29.

He said commissioners had "no feeling at this point" on whether they would set higher pay rates.

Seeking increases for their positions were:

—Romney, who said he personally did not seek a pay boost, but that any subsequent governor "should not have a 'live and work on the current $40,000 a year salary."

—Chief Justice John Dethmers said the six other state supreme court justices and he decided they should get $40,000 a year instead of the present $35,000, $5,000 extra for the chief justice.

—Three legislators, two of whom did not specify a figure but indicated an increase from the present $12,500 salary and $2,500 expense allowance would be desirable. The third mentioned a previously suggested $15,000 salary and the current expense allowance.

Romney, who has sent letters to all state departments urging they "hold the line" in spending, said the state is "scrambling" to meet other fiscal demands for next year.

Budget estimates indicate that only about $45-50 million will be left over at the end of the fiscal year.

Death By Gas

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Death in the gas chamber was decreed Thursday for Thomas Braun, 19, convicted of the 1967 slaying of 17-year-old Timothy Luce and the kidnapping, rape and attempted murder of Luce's companion, Susan Bartolomei, now 19.

Braun and Leonard Maine, 19, both of Ritzville, Wash., also were accused in the slayings of Deanna Buse and Sam Ledgerwood in Oregon and Washington.

A jury of seven men and five women recommended death for Braun. Maine was convicted of second degree murder, kidnap and rape. He is to be sentenced Friday.

Yale To Admit Women Students

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale college has approved a proposal to admit women beginning in September 1969.

Student objections to housing arrangements proposed for the women, however, may postpone implementation of coeducation at the college, according to Yale University President Kingman Brewster Jr.

The proposal was given final approval Thursday by some 200 faculty members. Only one vote was cast against Brewster's proposal.

Pill Packed In Deer Handouts

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—It's just an apple the deer is nibbling at Plum Brook Station, near here. But soon, it's a pill-packed apple.

Scientists at Lewis Research Center, operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, have been giving whitetail deer daily food handouts.

Plum Brook, part of the center, has a large deer herd—too large to suit the space research effort and too large for the amount of food the area produces.

The daily rations of apples, alfalfa pellets, cracked corn and molasses will be getting "the pill" shortly because the deer are better known for multiplication than for subtraction.

It's all part of a program which has "widespread implications" in deer herd management, according to Dr. Tony J. Peterle, head of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at Ohio State University.

The birth control drug to be used has been tested on Hereford cattle and found safe, Peterle reports.

Some deer removal is essential at Plum Brook but conservationists would rather have the deer kept alive, trapped and transferred to other areas. NASA has considerable material and equipment on the station property and decided trappers would be unwelcome. Peterle says the Plum Brook project will be a two-year effort and maybe longer.

If the "pill" effort proves successful, the same technique might be employed in national forests or park areas where hunting is forbidden but where deer are too plentiful and literally starve to death.

Drilling Platform Explodes; Save 33

CROMER, England (AP)—Thirty-three men on a natural gas drilling platform that exploded and sank a supply boat in the gale-swept North Sea were rescued Friday by the British trawler Boston Hornet.

Coast Guards said two crewmen on the supply boat Hector Garnett were missing and feared dead. Her skipper and five other crewmen were rescued.

Some of the men from the platform were reported afflicted by gas poisoning. All were suffering from exposure.

A spokesman for the Phillips Petroleum Exploration Co., internationally owned combine that operates the platform 20 miles off England's east coast, said, "We think the supply boat was swept into the rig by high seas and triggered an explosion by cutting a gas line. We are still trying to build up a picture of what happened."

Mead Corp. Steps Up Fight Against Litter

As part of a stepped up industry war on litter, every truck and sales vehicle of soft drink bottlers from coast to coast will be litter bag equipped by early in the new year.

The litter bag project, part of a continuing campaign spearheaded by the National Soft Drink Association, marks the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of Mead Packaging, a division of The Mead Corporation and major supplier of multiple packaging equipment and cartons in the food and beverage fields.

Rather than indulge in self appreciation on the centennial, Mead Packaging President C. Greene Garner and Beverage Packaging General Manager R. M. O'Hara decided the best observance would be a contribution to one of the country's most pressing problems affecting packaging, the rising tide of litter. The result: A gift of 100 litter bags to every bottler in the country for fleet vehicle use. Also, Mead has offered to share with parent companies and local bottlers the cost of widespread community distribution of similar litter bags.

Not The Material

Each bag features a colorful hand symbol reminding Americans of the blight on beauty created by their careless disposition of all sorts of materials. This symbol was created by a Mead artist several years ago and has been widely adopted as the symbol of business support of anti-litter campaigns at the national, state, and local levels.

"Too many people see litter and think that the material discarded is at fault," Garner said. "Attempts to ban or tax bottles or cans because they are easy to throw away are not realistic, for they won't eliminate the problem. In celebrating our centennial, we want to point up that packaging producers are hard at work to find less litter-labile materials, and that soft drink, beer, and food processors are leaders in organized efforts to reduce litter through sound education, realistic laws, and effective enforcement."

Presentation of litter bags is taking place at state soft drink conventions and through personal deliveries by Mead personnel in the field. In most cases, 100 litter bags are more than enough for a soft drink firm's vehicles and bottlers are being urged to present surplus bags to municipal officials for use in police, sanitation, and public works cars and trucks.

People The Cause

The Mead Corp. is also co-operating in the national programs that seek to reduce litter along roadsides, in city streets and along shores and beaches.

The education and control of litterbugs is considered the appropriate way to deal with the littering problem, for it is "people" not "things" that cause the clutter.

Statistics on the problem show that a long holiday weekend will produce enough litter to fill up 2,200 freight cars, or a line of trash trucks 43 miles long, or fill a hole 10 feet in diameter and 26 miles deep.

There's no special season for littering, since it goes on throughout the year, to be uncovered in northern areas when the snow leaves the ground along the roadsides in springtime.

Business and industry are devoting an increasing sum each year to encourage the fight on litter, government is increasingly concerned, and in many communities continuing anti-litter campaigns gain new friends to the ranks of the "neaties."

Life Beyond Death Is Plausible: Bishop Pike

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, often criticized for discounting some aspects of Christian doctrine, has become a firm and outspoken advocate of its primary belief—life beyond death.

"It's indicated by the empirical data," he remarked in an interview. "It's the most plausible conclusion."

For more than two years, the bishop has been probing psychic phenomena, along with numerous sessions in which he reports apparent communication with various deceased persons, including his son, James Jr., who killed himself Feb. 4, 1966, at the age of 20.

After examining critically other possible alternatives, he says

Ask Pay-Off For Fishermen Who Are Phased Out

Michigan's Conservation Commission recently passed a resolution urging Congress to enact legislation which would provide federal funds to help compensate for the equipment investments of commercial fishermen who will be phased out of business in this state's Great Lakes waters.

The commission's action is tied to legislation passed in this state in 1968 which authorizes the Conservation Department to limit Michigan's number of commercial fishermen, determine their catch quotas, and spell out where, when, and how they can operate in the Great Lakes.

Charles D. Harris, the Department's Deputy Director of Resources Management, reported that Michigan's commercial fishing industry may not feel too much impact from the new law's regulatory provisions in 1969.

He indicated that next year probably will be a decision-making period in which the Department will work with an advisory committee yet to be appointed by Governor Romney to refine controls which will take effect over the commercial fishing industry in 1970.

Two From Delta Receive Degrees From U. Of M.

ANN ARBOR—University of Michigan regents have confirmed the awarding of 2,373 degrees this summer to students being graduated from its 17 colleges and schools.

Among them are two from Delta County:

Harriet Alvord Ihlenfeldt, 609 S. 9th St., Master of Arts in Library Science; and Charles Thomas Watson, 1512 Michigan Ave., Gladstone, Bachelor of Science Engineering.

the most reasonable explanation is "the affirmation of life after death."

Now a staff member of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, of Santa Barbara, Calif., Bishop Pike details his case in a new book, published by Doubleday, called "The Other Side."

Different Plane

Asked what that other realm is like on the basis of what the bishop said was apparent messages from it, he replied, "It seems hard to describe in our terms, just as it's hard for us to tell what vichyssoise tastes like. You say it's salty. But what's salt?"

"It's a whole different plane of existence. It seems to be a kind of a growth from 'strength to strength,' much as the prayerbook puts it. But it's not all heaven or hell, but a growing, or else a shriveling."

In his clinically analytical account, the bishop, a one-time attorney and Navy intelligence officer, subjects his experiences to rigorous questioning, seeking natural explanations when possible, but often finding none.

The result, he says, "enables me to affirm life after death as the natural thing to expect of the human psyche, which already seems to be in eternal life."

His investigations were triggered by a series of strange occurrences—objects moving, clocks stopping at the time his son died—which took place in an apartment in Cambridge, England, shortly after his son's death in New York.

Two assistants witnessed the phenomena. Baffled, finally assuming his son was trying to communicate with him, the bishop consulted a British clergyman, who suggested he see a London spiritual medium, Emma Twigg.

Apparent Messages

Along with that first meeting with her, on March 2, 1966, the bishop describes a dozen sessions with various mediums, both in this country and in England, continuing up to June of this year.

The bishop reports apparent messages from several persons who have died besides his son, including the late great theologian, Paul Tillich, a long-time friend and mentor of Bishop Pike.

At first, the bishop's son seems in a disturbed state, and purportedly says that "nothing I've seen over here makes me any more inclined to believe in God."

Later, in June 1968, the son supposedly reports that his companions "talk about" Jesus. "Oh, but dad, they don't talk about Him as a Savior. As an example, you see? ... I don't understand it yet. I may, sometime, I may ... it's exciting, exciting ... we are not the dead ones, you are the dead ones."

In the succeeding messages, the son seems gradually to progress from a rather uncertain condition to increasing awareness and activity.

Oil In Backyard Brings Trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Imagine the delight of Bernard Weinsieder and his family when oil bubbled up through a crack in their backyard patio a few weeks ago.

Weinsieder's son Jules, 22, said, "We thought we had it made."

But so far it has cost more than $3,000, wrecked the family patio, driven some neighbors away, and landed them in court.

The family followed the seepage to a storage cellar where they found a pool of crude oil. It turned out this came from a well drilled in 1911 and abandoned in 1924.

The first sign of disaster came when they called refineries to find out how much the oil was worth.

"They all said they were committed to certain companies, that we were independent operators and they couldn't buy from us," said Richard Weinsieder, a 17-year-old son.

A petroleum geologist checked the well and said he doubted whether it would ever pay to try to make it productive again.

Weinsieder, the elder, a bread salesman, had to pay $2 a barrel to have the cellar pumped out and 150 barrels of oil trucked away.

Then as the oil kept coming, the family paid $2,500 to a drilling company to dig a hole in the yard and find the well, a tenant moved out because of oil odors and gurgling sounds, a neighbor filed suit because her tenant also moved out, chunks of the patio broke loose because of underground pressures and the Weinsieders learned it would cost them $20,000 to cap the well properly.

The family also found out that the well was drilled and deserted by Associated Oil Co., which later became part of the Getty Oil Co. They hired an attorney who filed a $375,000 negligence suit against the company.

"The oil company reaped the benefits from the oil well years ago," said Jerome Benzik, the lawyer. "Why should the Weinsieder family, who purchased the home only two years ago, now have to suffer from the oil company's negligence?"

A Getty oil spokesman said: "We were the corporate predecessor involved in that portion of the old Salt Lake Oil Field, but we've no interest in the field for 44 years."

Exhume Body In Investigation

DETROIT (AP)—An autopsy was performed Thursday on the exhumed body of a Farmington Township woman whose death is being investigated by township police.

The woman was Mrs. Hannah Bowerbank, 66, who was an office assistant of Dr. Ronald E. Clark when she died March 20, 1967.

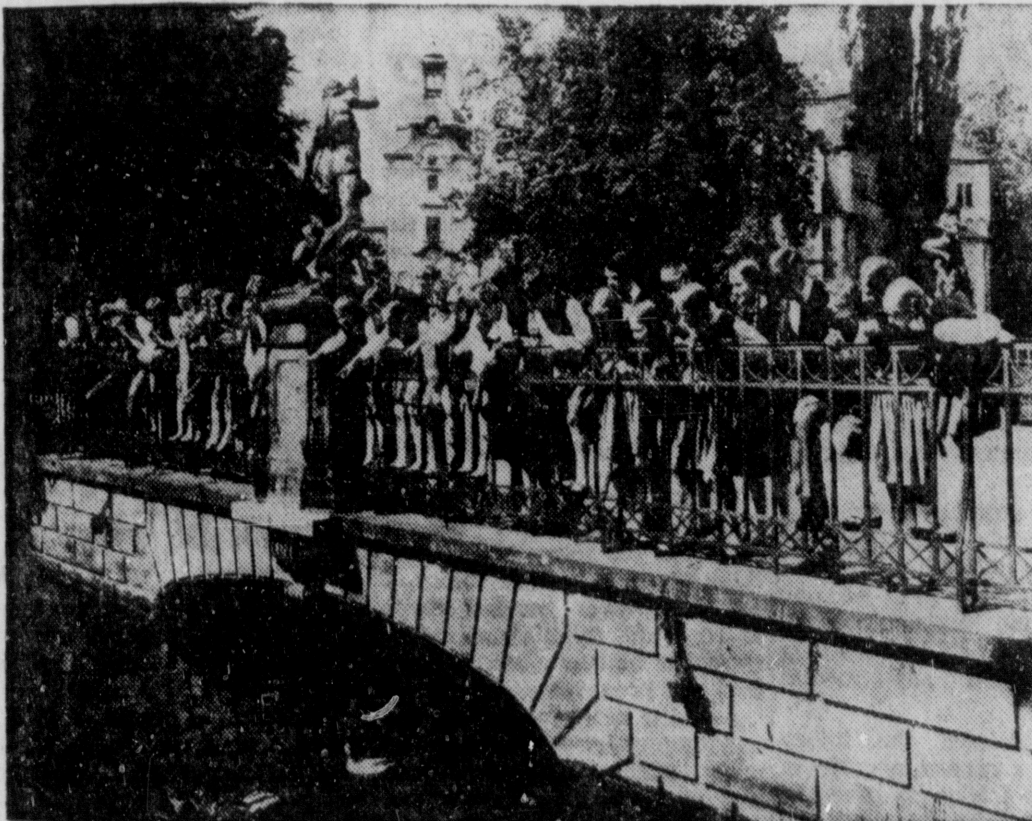

Clark is serving a term of three to 15 years in Southern Michigan Prison after being convicted of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Bowerbank's successor as his office assistant, Mrs. Grace Neil, 43.

Testimony at Clark's trial indicated Mrs. Neil died from an overdose of sodium pentothal, commonly called truth serum, which he had administered.

Similar causes of death were listed for both Mrs. Bowerbank and Mrs. Neil. The death certificate signed by Clark for Mrs. Bowerbank says she died from coronary thrombosis, arteriosclerosis and arthritis.

Dr. John F. Burton, Wayne County medical examiner, said it should be known in several days whether Mrs. Bowerbank died of a heart attack.

In a week to 10 days, reports are expected from the Michigan State Police Crime Laboratory on tests of vital organs for presence of any drugs or poison in Mrs. Bowerbank's body, said Burton.

THE OBERNKIRCHEN Children's Choir will open the 1968-69 Delta Community Concert season on Monday evening, Nov. 18, at the William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium. The choir of 36 young singers is directed by Edith Moeller and is now on its 10th sold-out American tour. Curtain time is at 8:15 p. m. and admission is by season ticket only.

Deer Habitat Improved By Christmas Greens Cutting

Woods workers are creating and improving habitat for deer, sharptail grouse, sandhill cranes and other non game animals by harvesting a forest product on the Hiawatha National Forest.

The cutting is being done on the Birch Farm Wildlife Area where long narrow pine plantations are becoming too high and dense to be good habitat for these animals. Portions of the plantations are being cleared to encourage shrub and browse species for deer food and cover. Also removing portions of the plantations will connect several small isolated openings.

The larger opening will be more desirable for grouse, sandhill cranes, upland plover and other species which live in grass and low brush areas, the Forest Service reports.

Getting the trees cut was at first a problem. They were too small to be sold or logged for pulpwood, and too big to be mowed down. Cutting just to improve wildlife habitat is expensive, no funds were available. The alternative to the Forest Service paying to have the trees cut, was to have the cutting done through a commercial timber sale.

More Deer Browse

Foresters on the Rapid River District undertook a project to merchandise the trees. They determined what possible uses the trees could be put to, and then contacted potential buyers. They sold the trees for Christmas greens. The first sale was made three years ago.

Each November since 1965, approximately 10 acres of plantation have been cut and cleared. This approach has several advantages; it accomplishes wildlife habitat development or improvement through the harvest of a commercial crop and produces income to the general treasury. The county received 25 per cent of National Forest receipts.

Partial benefits of the program will be realized during the next two weeks by those who deer hunt on and around the area. Other benefits will be shared by sharptail hunters and bird watchers who go out early on a spring morning to watch sharptail grouse dancing during their courtship antics. Still other benefits will be enjoyed by the young and old seeking the sandhill crane and upland plover, or the call of the vesper sparrow or sparrow hawk on a summer evening or the fall migration of lapland longspurs.

Hunters Welcome

National Forest are public hunting lands administered by the U. S. Forest Service. State hunting laws apply on the National Forest. The Department of Conservation is responsible for management of the animal populations through regulation of hunting season and control of harvest. The Forest Service is responsible for management of the habitat.

Through cooperative effort, management of habitat and population are dovetailed to provide the maximum number of game animals for hunters, as well as non game animals.

Hunters are encouraged to use National Forest campgrounds where there is safe drinking water and sanitation facilities. No collections for user fees are made after Labor Day. For those hunters who wish to camp elsewhere on the National Forest, a free permit is required. These may be obtained at the District Ranger's Office. This is also a good spot to get other up-to-date information about field conditions. Ranger Stations are located at Rapid River, Manistique, and Munising.

The British attempted a landing at Buenos Aires, Argentina, in 1806, but citizens drove out the 1,200-man landing force.

CUTTING CHRISTMAS GREENS can open an area and better the habitat for game, as well as provide revenue for the cutters. Tom Wandahega and his wife are pictured at work harvesting greens in an area where the habitat is being improved for game animals and birds. (USFS Photos)

THE CLEARED AREA will encourage the increase of deer and sharptail grouse in the Hiawatha National Forest, plus non-game birds and animals as well. The pine plantings have grown so dense the land is no longer a good habitat for wild creatures.

Dr. Cornely Aims To End Racial Health Gap

DETROIT (AP) — The first Negro to be named president-elect of the American Public Health Association (APHA) says he will work to reduce the health gap between white and black citizens.

Dr. Paul Cornely, who will take office a year from now, said in an interview Thursday he also hopes to see a national health policy adopted.

"Ours is one of the few countries in the world that does not have a national health policy," he said. "We hope to help formulate one." Cornely was elected at the APHA's 96th annual meeting in Detroit.

Consumer Involvement

"What is the use of teaching someone about health care and then sending him back to a slum area with no job, with no adequate food and into a housing situation which is lousy? We have to look at both personal health care and environmental health care." The problems of the black and the poor are important, he said, but all human beings are of concern to the association.

Cornely said he hopes the public health organization will adopt a policy that will seek to bring the consumer onto its membership roles and set goals concerning the health of the nation as a whole.

The APHA could then become a much more influential leader in the health field, he explained, using its power to get Congress and the new administration to do something about the fragmented services and sometimes haphazard approach taken by the government toward public health problems.

"There are people in the federal government who don't consider health of primary importance in comparison with such things as freeways," he added. Cornely said he hoped the new Nixon administration would not tamper with the existing social legislation which he said are very important to the health and welfare of the nation. "If they do, we're going to be in a lot of trouble, serious trouble," he said.

Cornely will be the first black physician to head any public health or medical organization, except for the predominantly Negro National Medical Association.

Currently he is in charge of the Howard University Department of Preventive Medicine and Public Health, a position he has held since 1955. He has won a number of awards for community service as well as an honorary doctor of science degree from his alma mater, the University of Michigan.

Negroes Welcomed

The president-elect said the APHA was a forward-looking organization in regard to recognition of Negro members, being one of the first national groups to adopt a policy declaration that it would not meet in any hotel that practices segregation.

Cornely said that when he first joined the association some 30 years ago it had only two or three Negro members out of some 4,000. Today, although no official count is available, Negro membership has multiplied manifold.

A black caucus was held during the Detroit convention, with nearly 80 Negroes attending one meeting. They hope to encourage more blacks to join the organization, Cornely said.

"There is no talk of separatism," he added. "In fact, the subject never came up. Most of the discussion was on how Negroes could participate more actively ... I hope my election will set a good example for a lot of professional organizations."

On The Sidelines With Mike Utt

Halfback Jim Lindstrom, a senior at Northern Michigan University from Iron Mountain, has been named the most valuable player on the Wildcats' football team for the 1968 season. Lindstrom's career statistics show 1,446 yards rushing in 319 attempts, 37 pass receptions for 481 yards and 14 touchdowns. This season Lindstrom had 606 yards in 133 carries, caught 17 passes and scored seven touchdowns.

Ralph Sarnowski, a tackle at Central Michigan University from Escanaba, is one of 11 Central Michigan senior football players playing their last grid game for Central today. Sarnowski has been a regular for three seasons for the Chippewas and is rated a prime prospect for pro football.

Basketball fans in the Wakefield area will get a chance to see former Wakefield High School stars Gordon Lake, Dave Brown and Sheldon Jakkola in action with the Northland College basketball team this season when the Lumberjacks meet Michigan Tech on February 19 in Wakefield. Northland will play a 20-game season with the games evenly split with home and away contests.

Northern Michigan's Wildcats broke or tied 21 individual and team records during the 1968 football season. Kicker Gene Grady, quarterback Rich McCarthy and halfback Lonnie Holton led the assault on the individual marks. Grady increased his career PAT's to a record 55 and tied the career field goal mark of eight in two seasons. McCarthy broke three season records and one game record in the passing department. Holton became Northern's all-time leading rusher, running his total to 1,772 yards.

Mickey Raboine, a 5-foot, 11-inch, 200-pound linebacker at Northland College from Stephenson, was a virtual one-man gang on defense for the Lumberjacks this fall. He led the way with 91 individual and 78 assisted tackles in eight games and he also recovered two fumbles. Raboine, who prepped under Ken Hofer (now at Menominee) at Stephenson High School, was a first team All-Great Lakes conference selection and a second team All-U. P. selection while playing for the Eagles.

Mel Peterson, former Stephenson High School basketball great, is now playing professional basketball with the Oakland Oaks basketball team in the American Basketball Association. Peterson scored four points in his season debut against Denver.

Manistique Bombed By Ishpeming Quint

ISHPEMING — The Manistique Emeralds had the misfortune to play the high-flying Ishpeming Hematites in their opening game of the 1968-69 cage campaign and were upended 83-41.

The Emeralds turned the ball over 25 times to Ishpeming with mistakes and were never seriously in the game. Ishpeming jumped out to an early 10 point lead and increased it to 18 at half time. Two more bad scoring quarters by the Emeralds put the game winning margin at 42 points.

Ron Parkkonen helped the Hematites jump off to the early lead with an 11-point spurge in the first quarter and Tom Hammar kept it up with a 13-point scoring spree in the third quarter. The Hematites hit 14 of 40 field goal attempts in the first half and came back in the final period to hit on 26 of 38 attempts.

Manistique hit on 14 of 60 shots from the field for a 26 per cent shooting average. Sen-

Spartans Need Superb Effort To Stop Purdue

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — "Another Notre Dame" is Michigan State's only hope of stopping the potent Purdue football offense Saturday.

Michigan State surprised the nation—and probably itself—by upending highly ranked Notre Dame 21-17 in the sixth game of the season.

MSU has suffered only misery in the Big Ten. The Spartans beat only Wisconsin, which has been wickied around by every other team in the Big Ten.

Michigan State managed to fumble away and throw away chances against Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State and Indiana, losing to all four Big Ten foes.

MSU now is 4-4 overall compared to the Purdue 6-2 record. An upset of Purdue could brighten the tail end of the season. Michigan State is figured to have enough strength to take the final opponent, Northwestern.

Purdue has an attack that has shown an almost perfect

Warriors Dump Piston's Quint

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rookie Fritz Williams scored 21 points and had 12 assists as the San Francisco Warriors crushed the Detroit Pistons 133-105 in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Williams, from West Virginia, hit his season high as he sparked a third-quarter surge that put the Warriors in front by as much as 35 points. The point total was the highest of the season for San Francisco which evened its record at 7-7. Detroit has an identical record.

Jeff Mullins was the high scorer for the Warriors with 22 points. Center Nate Thurmond contributed 23 rebounds.

Detroit's top scorer was Happy Hairston with 19 points. Dave Bing the league's leading scorer could get only eight points until the fourth quarter when he collected nine more against the San Francisco reserves.

Sayers Amazes Doctors; Exits Hospital Walking

CHICAGO (AP) — Gale Sayers, the Chicago Bears' injured superstar, walked out of Illinois Masonic Hospital Friday with the same pride and dominance he employs on the football field.

Sayers, who last Sunday night underwent knee surgery for torn ligaments, amazed the medical world by walking out of the hospital less than a week after his operation.

Refusing crutches and keeping the cast on his right leg out of sight under his blue slacks, the player called the most exciting runner in the National Football League vowed he'd be back next season without any mental blocks.

Sayers suffered the injury early in the second quarter of last Sunday's triumph over the San Francisco 49ers when he was hit by defensive back Kermit Alexander, one of Sayers' closest friends in football. Minutes later Dr. Theodore Fox announced Sayers

Carney Begins Season Friday

CARNEY — A new coach and four returning lettermen will lead the Carney Wolves during this year's basketball season which begins with a home encounter against Champion on November 22.

Ron Solberg succeeds Bob Kuntze at the coaching helm and he will receive help this season from Mike Smith, a native of Negaunee and a graduate of Northern Michigan University.

Lettermen returning to the Wolves include Tim Moran, Gerry Guard, Dennis Lundquist and Paul Polfus. Moran has been a starter since his freshman year and has scored 711 points in three years. He needs only 77 points to break the school scoring record of 787 set by Bob Macco from 1962 to 1965.

Mark Crandall, Mike Adams, Jim Lynch, Pete Anderla and Allan Peterson were lost to the team through graduation and another starter from last year, Bill Berto, transferred to Monroe, Mich.

Promising newcomers to the team are David Lampinen, a cagey guard who averaged 16 points a game on the junior varsity last season, Martin Laurin, a 6-foot, 4-inch center candidate and John Perras, a 6-foot 2-inch sophomore who averaged 17 points on the junior varsity last year.

Others working out for berths on the Carney team are Dave Waldo, Don Anderson, Mike Charlier, Chuck Laurin and Bob Polfus. "Because of the new terms in our conference this year," commented coach Solberg on the coming season, "it is difficult to name any pre-season favorites. Our team seems to possess scoring potential and has speed at the guard slots, fair height and a fine attitude. I look for improvement as the season progresses and hope to be in the thick of the Skyline conference race in February."

ENGADINE — The Engadine Eagles open their 17-game 1968-69 basketball season on the road at Cedarville on Nov. 22 with only four lettermen returning from last year's squad.

Five seniors, five juniors and a lone sophomore make up this year's Engadine team. The Eagles won't be hurting too much in the height department as seven of the eleven players on the squad surpass the six-foot mark with senior letterman Jim Schutt topping the list at 6 feet 2 inches.

In addition to Schutt, other lettermen on the team are seniors John Greenwald and Pat Bigger and sophomore Skipper Bigger.

Also vying for a regular spot on the Engadine roster are Ron Salvatore, Dale McCullough, Ken Germain, Victor Belleville, Duane Miller, Martin Matchinski and Stanley Vallier.

Head coach Jim Brownson is starting his second year at the helm of the Engadine cagers and he will be assisted this season by Gary Bath.

Rockets Lose Opener; Fall To DeTour, 70-48

DeTOUR — The Rapid River Rockets played the big and quick DeTour Red Raider team last night and came out on the short end of a 70-48 score in the opening game of the season for both squads.

The Rockets fell behind by 16 points in the first quarter but cut the gap to 10 at the intermission. A dismal third period in which the Rockets could only muster eight points led to their downfall.

The big difference was on the boards where DeTour picked off 45 rebounds to Rapid River's 25. Both teams shot 52 per cent from the foul line, with Rapid River hitting on 14 of 27 attempts and DeTour connecting on 10 of 19.

The Red Raiders were paced by Richard Bailey's 20 point performance and Tim Tischer's 18 points. Ed Bailey chipped in

Grid Bowl Spots At Stake Today

By The Associated Press

The annual riddle of which teams will play in college football's bowl games should get some unraveling today. At least selectors should get a clearer line on whom they want.

One Rose Bowl berth was expected to be filled by the outcome of the big Pacific-8 game between Southern California and Oregon State, each with a 4-0 conference record.

The Rose Bowl spot, which goes to the Big Ten champion, probably won't be decided until the Ohio State-Michigan game next week.

The Orange Bowl also apparently has filled one spot, with Penn State. The Orange also would like to get Georgia, but the Bulldogs reportedly have a no-strings-attached invitation to the Sugar Bowl, although no official invitation can be made until Monday under NCAA regulations.

Kansas and Auburn also are being mentioned for the Orange Bowl.

Tennessee is a strong contender for the Sugar Bowl. Others being considered are Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas and Texas. However, either Arkansas or Texas could wind up in the Cotton Bowl as the Southwest Conference champion.

Southern Methodist and Texas Tech also are in the race for the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. Missouri or one of the top Southeastern Conference teams is likely to get the other spot.

It could be Alabama against

Four Top Teams Play After Dark

By The Associated Press

Four of the nation's Top Twenty teams headline an attractive afterdark schedule tonight, highlighted by the meeting of Alabama and Miami, Fla., in the Orange Bowl, first regular season college football game ever televised in prime time (ABC-TV, 8:30 p.m., EST).

The six remaining unbeaten and untied major teams go into action in the afternoon but the slate of seven night contests promises plenty of offensive fireworks featuring such stars as Chris Gilbert of Texas, Houston's Paul Gipson, Brooks Dawson of Texas-El Paso, North Texas State's Steve Ramsey and Tommy Pharr of Mississippi State.

Despite the expected high-scoring battles elsewhere, Alabama-Miami figures as a defensive struggle. The 16th-ranked Crimson Tide are sixth nationally in total defense, eighth in rushing defense and sixth in defense against scoring with a yield of 10.3 points per game. Miami's top performer is defensive end Ted Hendricks, a 6-foot-8, 215-pounder known as The Mad Stork.

Among other ranking teams playing at night, No. 8 Texas is at Texas Christian for a key Southwest Conference tussle; 14th-ranked Houston entertains Idaho, a high-powered College Division team, and Wyoming, No. 20, visits Texas-El Paso.

Elsewhere, Mississippi State is at Louisiana State, North Texas State at Louisville and Richmond at Southern Mississippi.

The big afternoon game takes place in the Los Angeles Coliseum where top-rated Southern California meets 13th-ranked Oregon State for a trip to the Rose Bowl.

That game will be telecast to some parts of the country, also by ABC-TV, at 4:15 p.m., EST.

Second-ranked Ohio State visits Iowa for a Big Ten meeting and third-ranked Penn State plays at Maryland. Southern Cal, Ohio State and Penn State all sport 7-0 records.

Michigan, No. 4, hosts Wisconsin; Georgia, No. 5, is at Auburn, No. 12; sixth-ranked Missouri has a donnybrook at Oklahoma and seventh-ranked Kansas travels to Kansas State.

Notre Dame, ranked ninth, entertains Georgia Tech, 10th-ranked Arkansas faces Southern Methodist in Little Rock.

Ohio University has an 8-0 record but the 17th-ranked Bobcats must contain Cincinnati and Greg Cook, the second leading passer in the country.

The other unbeaten teams are Yale and Harvard, which meet Nov. 23 to decide the Ivy League title. This weekend, Yale entertains Princeton and Harvard hosts Brown.

Texas will turn Gilbert loose against TCU in an effort to break a four-way SWC deadlock with Arkansas, Southern Methodist and Texas Tech. Gilbert is ninth in rushing yardage and has cracked the all-time top 10.

Houston pits its flashy running game, led by Paul Gipson, against Idaho's air attack. Gipson is eighth nationally in rushing while Idaho's Steve Olson leads the NCAA small colleges in passing with 2,460 yards and 19 touchdowns, 14 of them to Jerry Hendren.

Wyoming is tops in over-all defense and sixth in both rushing and passing defense. The Cowboys will need more than press clippings to stop Texas-El Paso's Dawson, who has thrown for 1,676 yards and 14 scores.

Mississippi State's Pharr, fifth in passing, runs into Louisiana State's traditionally tough defense. Ramsey, who passed for five touchdowns in each of his last two games, goes back to work against a Louisville secondary which was riddled for 396 yards by Cincinnati's Cook a week ago.

Trenary Opens With Victory

ROCK—The Trenary Comets took a 14-point lead to the lockerroom at halftime and extended it in the third quarter and went on to defeat the Rock Little Giants, 85-57, in the opening game of the season for both teams last night.

Rock trailed by two points, 17-15, at the end of the first quarter, but the powerful Comets scored 25 points in the second quarter and outscored the Little Giants, 20-8, in the third frame to put the game out of reach.

Greg Begovac topped the Trenary scorers with 24 points and teammates Don Sandstrom, Gary Hager and David Marlin chipped in with 20, 18 and 12 points respectively.

Tom Lippens of Rock equalled Begovac's total in the scoring department with 24 points and Rodney Kivoja tossed in 12 in the losing cause.

The hot shooting Comets connected on 36 of 82 field goal attempts for 44 per cent and the Little Giants could only make 21 of 69 from the field for 31 per cent.

Rock's next game is at Watersmeet on November 30 and Trenary plays Perkins at home on November 20.

The Trenary junior varsity won the preliminary game, 85-28.

A Tale of Four Cities—or A Gruelling Way to Drop out of First Place. That's the latest chapter of the Cincinnati Royals' episodes in the National Basketball Association.

In first place in the NBA's Eastern Division with an 8-2 record, the Royals opened a four-straight-day, four-city tour with a 126-115 victory over the Bullets at Baltimore.

They finished it Friday night in third place with a 10-4 mark after losing 116-105 to the Celtics in Boston.

The Royals go home tonight to play Atlanta before finally getting a rest Sunday.

Meanwhile Baltimore, 12-4, is in first place, ahead of Boston, 9-3, after pounding the Milwaukee Bucks 129-102 Friday night.

In other action, Philadelphia nipped Atlanta 116-115, Los Angeles stopped San Diego 127-119, San Francisco turned back Detroit and Seattle edged Phoenix 128-124 in two overtimes.

Minnesota took Indiana 105-95 and Miami topped New Orleans 102-91 in the American Basketball Association.

Player-coach Bill Russell sent Cincinnati out of first place when he sparked a 10-point Boston surge that broke an 80-80 tie by turning in a three-point play in the third period.

Bailey Howell scored 27 points for the Celtics, who had seven players in double figures. Oscar Robertson had 28 and Jerry Lucas 21 for Cincinnati.

Baltimore outscored Milwaukee 39-19 to increase an 82-80 lead to a commanding 121-90 bulge with just over three minutes left in the game.

Gus Johnson led the Bullets with 28, and Earl Monroe added 25. Wayne Embury topped Milwaukee with 24.

Two missed foul shots and a pair of good ones spelled the difference in the Philadelphia-Atlanta game. With Atlanta leading 115-114 and seven seconds left, Walt Hazzard missed two free throws that would have clinched it for the Hawks. Bill Cunningham then made two with two seconds remaining to win it for Philadelphia.

Cunningham finished with 27 points, high for the game, and Luke Jackson contributed 23 for the 76ers. Lou Hudson scored 26 and Hazzard 21 for Atlanta, whose coach, Richie Guerin, reactivated himself for the game but did not play.

Jerry West and Elgin Baylor teamed to guide Los Angeles' Western Division leaders to their sixth straight. West drilled in 34 points and Baylor scored 28, offsetting a 38-point performance by rookie Elvin Hayes.

The Lakers held only a 29-28 lead after one quarter, but rolled to a 62-50 command at halftime and Baylor and West kept pouring it on to keep them ahead. Wilt Chamberlain also contributed 21 points for Los Angeles.

Lenny Wilken's six points in the second overtime enabled Seattle to slip past the Suns.

The Supersonics' rookie, Joe Kennedy, hit a jumper with 10 seconds left to produce a 112-112 deadlock at the end of regulation time. Then Dick Snyder of the Suns—connected on a jumper to tie it 119-119 at the end of the first overtime.

Wilkins, who scored 30 points, hit a pair of free throws with 28 seconds left in the second extra session to give Seattle a 128-123 lead. The Suns' Dick Van Arsdale took game honors with 34 points.

Rookie Fritz Williams scored 21 points, including some vital ones in the third period when San Francisco built as much as a 35-point lead, to help the Warriors maintain their role as runnerup in the Western Division.

Jeff Mullins scored 23 for the winners and Nate Thurmond grabbed 23 rebounds. Happy Hariston was high for Detroit with 19.

Bears Give Piccolo Long-Awaited Turn

By The Associated Press

Brian Piccolo gets a long-awaited chance as Chicago's starting running back in the Bears' National Football League game against Atlanta Sunday. It should be a moment of great joy for him but it isn't.

That's because Piccolo is replacing Gale Sayers and while a player can occupy Sayers' spot on the field, it's quite another thing to replace him. Sayers, of course, is out for the season with torn ligaments and cartilage in his right knee.

"This isn't the way I wanted it," says Piccolo. "Gale should be out there."

Piccolo knows there are things Sayers can do which will be impossible for him to duplicate. "The change of pace and direction without losing speed or a step, the instinct that tells Gale which way to go, and all the other intangibles he possesses—they belong to Sayers alone. Nobody can do what Gale Sayers does," Piccolo admits. But he'll try anyway.

In other NFL action Sunday, Cleveland is at Pittsburgh, St. Louis at Baltimore, Minnesota at Detroit, Los Angeles at San Francisco, New Orleans vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Atlanta at Chicago, Philadelphia at New York and Dallas at Washington.

In the American League, New York plays at Oakland, San Diego is at Buffalo, Denver visits Houston, Cincinnati is at Miami and Boston at Kansas City.

Piccolo picked up 67 yards in 18 carries after replacing Sayers last Sunday. Gale had 32 yards in 11 carries and 856 for the season—second best in the league—before the accident.

The Bears have won four straight with rookie Virgil Carter at quarterback and share the NFL's Central Division lead with Minnesota.

The Vikings, sky-high after dropping Green Bay last Sunday, hope for as strong a defensive show against Detroit this week as they had against the Packers. They dumped Bart Starr five times, blocked a field goal and jarred the Packers into two fourth period fumbles.

The Lions ended a 14-quarter drought with their first TD scored by the offense since Oct. 20, but still lost to Baltimore last week.

The Colts, sharing the Coastal Division lead with Los Angeles, run up against the hot Cardinals, who have not lost in five weeks. Jim Hart passed for 353 yards last Sunday as the Cardinals wiped out a three-touchdown Pittsburgh lead and battled the Steelers to a 28-28 tie.

Earl Morrill continues to pilot the Colts and together with a devastating defense which has permitted just two touchdowns in the last three weeks, he has kept Baltimore neck and neck with the Rams.

Los Angeles, too, has been doing it with defense. The Rams have allowed 111 points—only three more than league-leading Baltimore. They beat Atlanta by a touchdown last week with some clutch running from Tommy Mason and Willie Ellison.

John Brodie passed for 199 yards and two TDs but suffered four interceptions against Chicago as the 49ers lost their fifth game last week.

Green Bay tries to climb back into the Central Division picture against New Orleans. The world champion Packers have lost four and tied one in five division games this year. Over - all, they're 3-5-1 and 1½ games back of both Detroit and Minnesota.

Cleveland, clinging to a one-half game edge in the Century Division, has won four straight and five in the last six weeks. The Browns have the NFL's leading rusher in Leroy Kelly, who has gained 890 yards in 144 carries. Pittsburgh, after dropping six straight, has not lost in three weeks.

New York closed to within one game of Dallas in the Capitol Division race by knocking off the Cowboys last Sunday. The Giants could tie for the lead by beating winless Philadelphia and getting some help from Washington, which hosts Dallas.

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 300-year-old Rembrandt etching valued at $3,200 was returned to the Harpur College Art Gallery Thursday night, little more than a day after it was stolen.

The four-by-six-inch etching, entitled "Christ Disputing the Doctors," is being returned to its owner, John Wilson, of Lakewood, Mich.

Michael Milkovich, director of the gallery, told police a man telephoned that the etching was under the door of the gallery office. He found the undamaged etching in a sealed white envelope.

Escanaba Among Cities Asking Clean Water Aid

When will Michigan's first Clean Water and Recreation bonds be sold? And when will the programs actually get going?

The state's voters approved passage of the twin bond proposals on Nov. 5.

Sale of the bonds will be handled by the Treasury Department, report Michigan conservation leaders. Treasury officials will try, of course, to time sales so that the lowest possible interest rates can be secured. Just like the stock market, the bond market has its ups and downs as economic conditions change.

Loring F. Oeming, retiring executive secretary of the Water Resources Commission, has said his agency could begin doling out bond money to local governments for pollution control

Astronauts Say U.S. Holds Lead

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The United States will land two men on the moon and then move on to other important space goals, the three Apollo 7 astronauts predicted Thursday.

Speaking to more than 500 newspaper executives at the Associated Press Managing Editors' annual convention, the three space veterans said the United States is ahead of Russia in the space race.

The APME convention concludes today with selection of new officers and a banquet following more discussions of ways to improve news coverage.

The astronauts, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., who commanded the Apollo 7 flight, Air Force Lt. Col. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter B. Cunningham, said American citizens—and the news media—must realize that the U.S. and Russia have different space goals.

"This country intends to land two men on the moon and bring them back," Schirra said. He compared a Russian flight around the moon "from 1,000 miles away" with the fable of the "Cow Jumping over the Moon."

"We've been closer and we can land two men on the moon and bring them back," he said. "We can do it and we don't intend to just jump over the moon."

Eisele said the astronauts "get the feeling sometimes the Russians are interested in making a big splash."

"We're a little less flamboyant," he said. Cunningham also said, "We're within reach of our goals. I think we're placing far too much emphasis on reacting every time the Russians do something," he said. "We should not be trying to respond continually to what somebody else is doing."

Schirra said a successful manned landing on the moon would enable the U.S. to use the knowledge gleaned from its space efforts to move into other areas.

"You develop a means of transportation. It's damned expensive, but someday it will be useful," Schirra said. "We can explore areas that have never been seen before." He predicted "large operating space stations" will be a reality within the next five years.

projects as early as next spring. The exact timing will depend upon such factors as when the bonds are sold, whether federal and local matching funds are available, and legislative action. Every dollar of the $335 million Clean Water bond issue will be disbursed to local units. None will be spent at the state government level, and none will go to pay administrative or operating costs.

More than 200 Michigan communities have applied for financial help in controlling local pollution problems. It has been estimated the bond money will help pay for 210 new sewage treatment facilities, improvements to 126 existing plants and sewers for about 3½ million people not now served by them.

Glenn C. Gregg, the Conservation Department's deputy director for recreation, says it will be sometime after next July 1 before first expenditures from the Recreation bond fund are made. The Legislature must approve every single project for which bond money is spent. The first group of items will appear in the Department's 1969-70 budget bill, which won't be passed until late spring.

As with the Clean Water bond issue, none of the Recreation dollars will go for administration or operations. It will all be spent for land and facilities, with emphasis on the latter.

As now planned, $30 million of the $100 million Recreation issue will be dispensed as grants to local governments for community-type recreation projects. The remaining $70 million will be spent by the Department for parks ($40.8 million), fish ($17.7 million), game ($7.5 million), and forestry ($4 million) developments. The Legislature could change this split, however.

Both Gregg and Oeming reported their staffs are in excellent position to move ahead quickly once the green light is flashed. Detailed plans were prepared to justify the needs for the bond issues, and these plans will guide the programs.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

A giant radio telescope picked up bursts of static from a galaxy 2000 light years away. In them, scientists discovered these simple words:

"Earthmen, your planet is in danger. As your morals decay, your great cities slowly crumble. You will see wars and civil strife."

"But we offer you hope," the ancient message continued. "A new world. We can give you knowledge and bring you the peace for which you have searched so long..."

Science-fiction?

Not entirely.

There is a message that originated in a distant place over 2000 years ago. It describes the world as it is today, and it offers hope for the future.

The Bible, inspired by God, is a very real message, one that you can begin reading today. Then go to church on Sunday and meet the Author there.
